

Weak Sanction Screening Solution Replaced by ComplianceLine

BACKGROUND

Davis Health System started in 1906 as a single small hospital and is now a health system serving 5 counties in West Virginia. Comprising two hospitals and several clinic locations, Davis Health System provides expert staff and cutting-edge technologies to the community it serves.

CHALLENGE

Davis Health System has had an active compliance program for the past 20 years. Apryl Strother, current Corporate Compliance and Privacy Officer, was looking to replace the vendor they utilized to complete the government required sanction screenings. This competitor's product required users to access the government website outside of their system to confirm search results.

We were having to double check our previous vendor's work on government websites. It was great to find a higher level of service for the same price I was paying for a lower, sub-standard service level."

Apryl Strother, Corporate Compliance Privacy Officer

SOLUTION

ComplianceLine's SanctionCheck platform offered Davis a reliable product with searches and results available all within the same platform. The SanctionCheck platform also uses a unique identifier for each record searched and has the ability to remember previous search results so Davis Health System was not completing the same rules outs each month saving additional time and resources. ComplianceLine was also able to offer a higher level of service in which their account management team perform a portion of the rule out process for comparable pricing to the baseline service offered by this competitor.

THE RESULTS

The transition from the sales process to onboarding was seamless and the ComplianceLine Account Management team reached out immediately to kick off implementation. Davis Health System was up and running within 48 hours of returning the necessary setup documentation and is pleased with the SanctionCheck platform and the level of service received when interacting with ComplianceLine employees.
